Leave No One Behind Principles

- Promote and protect all fundamental rights and freedoms for all women throughout their life cycle.
- The central, transformative promise of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and the SDGs. It requires combating discrimination and inequality and addressing root causes.
- These discriminatory factors affect diverse groups of women and impede the process of gender equality and the implementation of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action.
- National mechanisms are required to provide sufficient information and data on the situation of marginalized groups in reporting to understand the progress made in their access to their fundamental rights.

Beijing +30: Preparation for National Reviews

Facilitator: Nadya Khalife

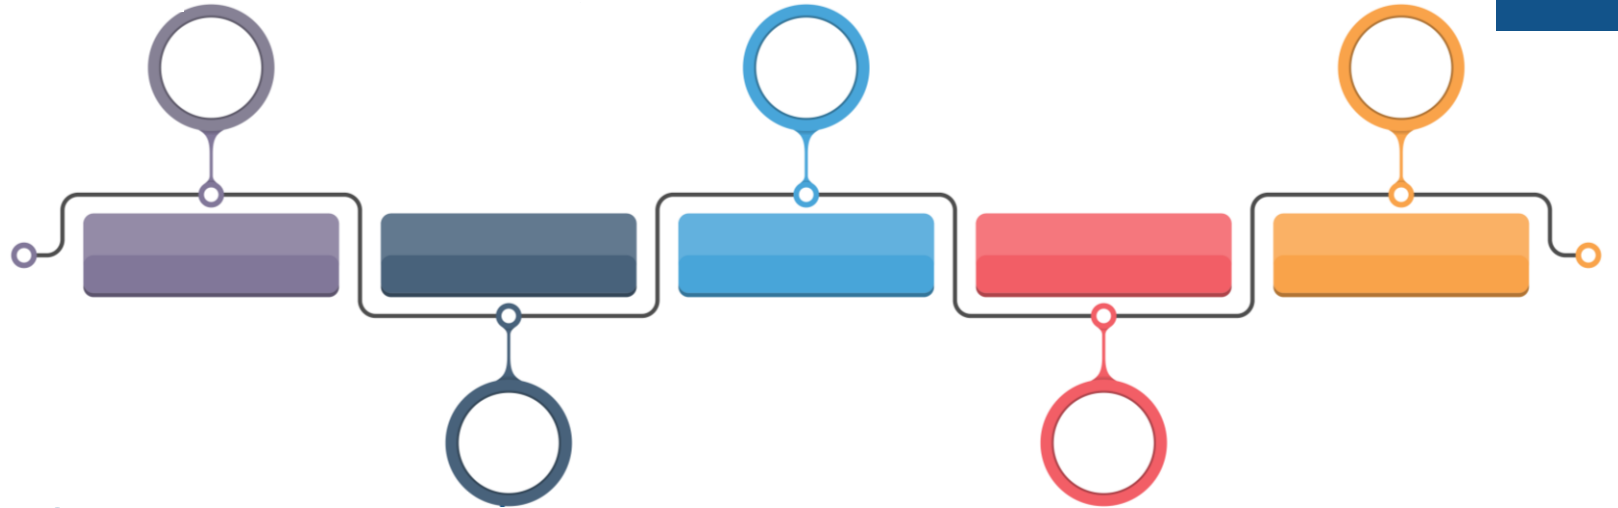

Regional Advisor for Gender Equality and Women's Empowerment

22 June 2023

<https://www.unescwa.org/ar>

What are the suggested steps to prepare for national reviews?

Please prepare a timeline based on the suggested questions below.

1. In the next three months (July-October), when do you expect to start the basic preparations for the national review?
2. When do you expect to form a national committee to prepare the national review? Please identify the key stakeholders.
3. What plan would you follow to collect data and information? When do you expect to engage with stakeholders?
4. Who are the identified stakeholders who played a critical role in the national review process? When do you expect to engage with these groups? Do you plan to conduct national and local consultations?
5. How will you ensure that no one is left behind?
